Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1079037A2] The method involves marking out the lower edge of the ceiling to be installed later on the outer wall cladding (5). The element plates (1) are fitted to the outer wall cladding. Anchor shackles are connected to the element plates either before or after they are fitted to the outer wall cladding, with their lower bars projecting out from the element plates. An Independent claim is included for a cornice cladding to be fitted using the method.
