Abstract (en)

A system is proposed in which refuse bins are put at a fixed location on the street in order to be emptied. This fixed location does not comprise a large area in which the refuse bins can be positioned in any mixed arrangement, but rather an individual location for each refuse bin. This is achieved by applying lines to the street, within which the house number of the designated user of the bin is arranged. All this may also be carried out using a sign or the like. <IMAGE>
