Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0116905A1] A process, system and computer readable medium for using a customer's identification, such as a frequent shopper card, as a prepaid fuel card in conjunction with a transfer certificate containing a transfer certificate identification. A customer is able to receive credit for pre-paid fuel by having the customer present their identification and the transfer certificate identification at a fuel pump when purchasing fuel. An account for a fuel credit associated with the customer's identification and transfer certificate identification is maintained.
