Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0006367A1] The invention relates to a round-bale press for compacting refuse into round bales and a corresponding method. The round-bale press provided for by the invention permits the compression of refuse in a compression space (10). To this end an endless belt (12) is driven which together with two side walls (14, 16) defines a compression space (10). An endless belt section (24) mounted in a pivoting manner can be moved from a refuse-compression position into a delivery position in such a way that the compressed round bale can be evacuated from the compression space (10) via said section (24) of the endless belt.
