Abstract (en)

A device (11) for packing a mattress filling (12) comprising a box-type L-shaped body (52) with prismatic section featuring successive interconnected compression chamber (54) and expulsion chamber (56) inside which two pistons (64, 66) slide in succession. The body (52) is provided with a first aperture (58) via which a first piston (64) can be inserted inside to press a filling (12) in the final part of the first chamber (54) until it is aligned with the second chamber (56), in the middle of the body (52). A second aperture (60) is provided for the insertion of a second piston (66) to expel the compressed filling towards an outlet (62) where a rigid container (70) is positioned. <IMAGE>
