Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1120357A1] The paint storage method consists of choosing a sealed and flexible bag (10) with an insufficient resistance to resist the weight of the product. The bag is placed in a protective rigid container (20) so that its edge passes over that of the container. The bag is held open and the product is poured into it until it is level with the container edge. The bag edge is then folded on top of the product and stored. After using the product the empty bag is removed from the container.
