Abstract (en)
[origin: CA2291046A1] A combination medication sample, in a reusable container and medication prescription device includes a flat support panel (12) having an obverse or front facing surface which defines a first and second portion thereof. A removable, reusable medication container (14) holding a small sample quantity of medication in pill, tablet or capsule form is viewably attached to the first portion and a removable medication prescription form (16) is attached to the second portion of the front surface of the support panel. This combination permits the physician to simultaneously distribute a starter quantity of medication and to write a prescription for a larger quantity of medication. A cover panel (18) for protecting the prescription form, a pocket (44) for holding printed material relating to the medication, and ample space for printed promotional indicia on behalf of the prescription manufacturer are also provided.
