Abstract (en)

[origin: DE19848399A1] Fastener blocks (20) are pressed and screwed into outwards-diverging grooves (11, 12) extend in the length direction on both sides of the cross member (10). Vertical teeth are provided in both sides of a cavity in the side of the fastener block facing the support arm (60), for engagement with a height adjustable toothed bar part of the arm. One or two support arms are secured with the fastener blocks to the cross member by screws.
