Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1128142A2] The domestic refrigerator has support bars located or held on the opposite side walls of the cold chamber for storage plates, of which at least one storage plate is divided. The parts (10,11) of the storage plate consist of glass plates or plastic plates which abut one another in a plane, lying beside one another with their end faces that are inclined in opposite senses so that the inclined face (13) of the rear part reaches over the inclined face (12) of the front part at least partially.
