Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1130561A1] A card medium for use in information distribution according to the present invention, comprises: a card main body; a first indication section stripably formed on the card main body for being attached to a file member; a second indication section stripably formed on the card main body; and a third indication section stripably formed on the card main body for being attached to a file member. Therefore, a plurality of card mediums may be easily stitched into a file, making it possible to provide card mediums having an improved useful value. Further, the card medium can also be formed to include a song-word card main body; a first indication section stripably formed on the song-word card main body for indicating information relating to recorded songs, said first indication section being later attached to a file member; a second indication section stripably formed on the song-word card main body for indicating information relating to the recorded songs; and a third indication section stripably formed on the song-word card main body for indicating information relating to the recorded songs, said third indication section being later attached to a file member. Therefore, a plurality of song-word cards can be easily stitched into a file so as to be made in order. Moreover, a user is allowed to bond a picture and/or the title of a song to an information recording medium such as an MD. <IMAGE>
