Abstract (en)

[origin: DE19858814A1] The invention relates to a desktop utensil for receiving documents or files, especially a letter tray (10) or a desk pad (40) with a large-surface bottom part (12). The aim of the invention is to provide a means for electronically register documents and files. To this end, the bottom part (12) of the desktop utensil is provided with a ground antenna (26) which emits electromagnetic waves or responds to such waves. Said ground antenna communicates with transponders that are located on the documents or files.
