Abstract (en)

The invention relates to a device for supporting a sling of an invalid hoist, said device including means for suspending the sling in the device, and means for angular displacement of a patient suspended in the sling, wherein the suspension means comprises a first and a second set of suspension straps, and the angular displacement means includes winding means for winding of the first set and unwinding the second set of suspension straps or vice versa. By this invention, angular displacement of a patient suspended in the sling may be provided in an entirely different manner than previously known since the device comprises a number of straps that may be wound or unwound in order to change the angular position the patient suspended in the sling. <IMAGE>
