Abstract (en)

[origin: FR2790047A1] The hanging rail (1) is designed to be fixed to a vertical wall (2), with objects suspended from it by rods (10) fitted with adjustable hooks. The upper end of each rod has an oblique section (16) and a notch (22). The oblique section allows the tip (14) of the rod to be inserted into the rail cavity (9), while the notch engages with the lower edge (21) of the cavity, so that the rod is suspended in a vertical position by its own weight.
