Abstract (en)
There is disclosed a glueing tool (1) for forming glue joints (3) on large items, preferably half-shells (2) for mill wings. In order to achieve uniform width and thickness of the formed glue joint, the nozzle is formed by a chamber (16) which is connected with a tapering outlet (17) ending with an elongate outlet opening (19). The outlet opening (19) defines width and thickness on the formed glue joint. <IMAGE> <IMAGE>
