Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1160161A1] Device for packaging bags filled with products, such as detergent, potatoes or the like, in containers, such as boxes or crates. The bags have a tip. The device is provided with a conveyor device for conveying the bags in the direction of the containers. A discharge device is provided for placing the bags from the conveyor device into the containers. Means are present for operating the discharge device such that it fluently places the bags in the containers, that means without damaging forces being exerted on the bags.
