Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1166658A2] According to the invention, the strap (9, 12) that goes around the wearer's back, instead of hooking in the center, which involves a certain difficulty, hooks at one side which makes it easy for right-handed people as well as left-handed people to hook same. The strap (9) is independent and has on its respective ends complementary hooking means (10) of clasps (8) integral to both triangular side extensions (3) of the cups (1). The strap (12) can also be attached at one of the side triangular extensions (3) and its free end will only have complementary hooking means (10) of the clasp (8) integral to the opposite side extension (3). In one case as well as the other, the strap (9, 12) has tightening means (11) in order to adjust the length thereof. <IMAGE>
