Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0066701A1] The invention relates to coated shaped bodies of a detergent and cleansing agent which have advantageous properties, such as a high degree of stability without impairing short disintegration times and a high degree of resistance to impact and abrasive stress. Said shaped bodies are obtained using lower quantities of coating agents, whereby a maximum 1 % by weight, or preferably significantly less of the total shaped body consists of the coating material. Selected water-soluble polymers which can also be mixed with other polymers are suitable for use as the coating materials.
