Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1184281A1] The method for fitting stretch film over palletised goods (1) comprises forming a hood (6) from the film with concertina folds in its lower edge, using vertically adjustable grippers on a frame. These are then moved sideways to apply tension to the film and open the base of the hood so that it fits over the goods and the film is stretched. The frame is then lowered over the goods so that the film is released from the grippers and stretched vertically. The novelty is that the tension of the film over the top of the goods is controlled. An Independent claim is included for a machine for carrying out the process.
