Abstract (en)
A highly entertaining revolving and flying toy is described. It can be manufactured at low cost and can be seen in the dark. A revolving disk-shaped body (2) which may be made of plastics and be inflatable to form a relatively rigid flying disc, comprises means such as an insert pocket (2g) into which one or more containers containing a chemiluminescent pair of reactants held separate until use by a separating member, for example a chemical luminous body (3), may be placed. <IMAGE>
