Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0054229A1] The invention relates to a method for making goods, especially food products, available to clients, and to a respective vending device which allows the client a quick and inexpensive disposal of said goods, irrespective of the shopping hours and without the laborious transport by hand. Said vending device comprises an input means (1/1') and at least one first intermediate storage (11) for the individual goods, at least one commissioning device (13) for transporting the goods to shopping carts (2) in shopping cart containers (102), at least one second intermediate storage (12) for finished shopping carts (2) and at least one output device for shopping carts (2). The invention is further characterized in that the output device comprises at least one car short term parking space (4) and one output sluice (3) with a request device (9) for the shopping carts (2) located in its immediate vicinity.
