Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1207237A2] The prefabricated room cell is made from concrete and comprises a base plate (2), ceiling plate (3) and side walls (4). At least the walls (4) are cast as a monolith from concrete and on one side there is a concealed shuttering which has plates (8) of concrete provided with a flat surface reinforcement. Further elements such as webs or grid supports protruding from the concrete plates project into the concrete used to cast the walls. At least one wall is thicker than its opposite wall.
