Abstract (en)

The sales cabinet has a space for receiving retail products and a removable product display (1) at least partially transparent. The product display (1) has at least one opening for placing exhibition products in it when the product display (1) is removed from the sales cabinet (1). The product display (1) is closed by at least one wall (2, 3) of the sales cabinet when the product display (1) is mounted on the sales cabinet. The space for receiving retail products extends behind the product display (1). The openings are preferably located at each lateral end of the product display (1); they are closed by the lateral walls of the sales cabinet when the product display is mounted on it. <IMAGE>
