Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0103981A1] A business management system of indoor in vehicles includes internal mouting means (200) normally for storing a notebook computer (110) in an instrument panel (100) formed in the front of an automobile and withdrawing the notebook computer (110) from the instrument panel (100). External mounting means (300) supports the internal mounting means outside of the instrument panel (100) and moves the internal mounting means to a desired position. Keyboard mounting means (400) mounts a keyboard (120) to the steering wheel of the automobile and the front portion of the body of the automobile. The keyboard mounting means (400) allows a driver to operate the notebook computer (110), which is mounted to the instrument panel (100) by the internal and external mounting means (200) and (300), in a driver's seat, and permits the keyboard (120) to be used as a sun visor when out of use.
