Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0109666A1] A clip (2) is integrally formed with or attached to each temple piece (13) of a pair of eyeglasses (1), to hold the eyeglasses to a garment, such as a pocket of a shirt or a belt. The clip may be molded of thermoplastic resins such as polycarbonate or polyvinylchloride in a variety of colors to match eyeglass temple pieces such as black or brown. In addition, these clips can also be finished in a metallic tone such as gold or silver through a well known process used in packaging for cosmetics. These latter clips would closely match the temple pieces of gold or silver frames.
