Abstract (en)
[origin: DE10063353A1] The door has a frontal base recess and is pivotable about a horizontal axis. A base panel (9) that joins onto the door (5) near the recess can adopt an initial position with the door closed and a control desired position with the door open. The base panel can be moved approximately vertically down into the desired position from the initial position by a hinge (10) between the housing (2,3) and the panel.
