Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0129558A1] The present invention is related to a test device provided with a pretreatment portion covered by a lid (2) with an aperture (3), which is fastened with hinges (A). The pretreatment portion is mounted on the same backing support (1) as a test strip (not shown). The lid (2) and the lid portion of the backing support is provided with means (7, 8 and 9), which support, secure and fix the position of the pretreatment layers, form a compartment (6) for collecting excess sample and regulate the flow of sample solution and diluent. The test device is useful in field tests and bed-side methods, especially in emergency situations when a rapid result is needed.
