Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1222876A2] Table arrangement comprises two table plates (2) arranged to move in different parallel planes and coupled together using a synchronizing unit provided with a control element (5) moving about a central axis. The control element exerts control curves on the plates so that the plates move between an inner position and an outer position. Preferred Features: The control element is able to move about a central axis. The control element rotates about an angle of 90 degrees .
