Abstract (en)
   [origin: GB2349246A] A constrained document server, comprises a database of documents and constraints for each document, and software to search the documents, to extract pieces of text out of them, and to limit the amount of text that is being extracted according to the constraints. The software includes a <I>searcher</I> component, which searchers the documents and generates a list of candidate documents, and <I>extractor/ filter</I> component, which extracts text of the candidate documents, and checks that the amount of extracted text does not exceed the constraints.
