Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1226910A1] The pole cutting process involves creating the pole (18), making a central cut (70) to produce two strips (80a, 80b). Second cuts are made along the strips and parallel to the central cut to different depths (rx). The strips are turned 90 degrees and the third cuts are made parallel to the center cut, also to different depths, and ending at the second cuts.
