Abstract (en)
The object of the invention is to provide an easy openable airtight container, which eliminates spillage problems and control over the direction of pouring. The objective is achieved by means of a semi-rigid frangible top (2) connecting to a flexible cellophane type of material underside (3). The top is scored along its width (at 4) such that by bending the container causes, by one action, the crease to break and the contents to be forced out by internal pressure. <IMAGE>
