Abstract (en)
[origin: DE10105553C1] The deposit device has a reception opening provided with a frame for reception of at least one interchangeable deposit container having an opening in its top side, provided with a sliding closure plate (76), which is moved between its closed and open positions by an electric motor (88) within the deposit container. The operation of the motor is controlled in dependence on the position of the deposit container relative to the frame via an electronic control, with cordless transmission of the operating energy for the latter and the electric motor. An Independent claim for a deposit container for a deposit device is also included.
