Abstract (en)

A pad for use in animal pet housings has bolsters hingedly connected along at least one edge of a center cushion so that the pad may conform to pet housings of similar shape but different floor dimensions. This allows one pet housing pad to accommodate pet housings of similar shapes but different dimensions, and the bolsters provide comfort and warmth to the pet along a vertical surface of the pet housing. The cushion covers are made of a washable, durable fabric. Contained within the cushion covers is soft foam, polyester or other similar material, which may be treated with an odor retardant such as cedar. The cushion cover may have a reclosable access opening defined by overlapping flaps of fabric, a zipper or other closure mechanism. <IMAGE>
