Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1232714A1] The rail has at least one holder (2) comprising a telescopic arrangement of vertical upper and lower hollow parts which can be fixed into position. At least one cavity in the upper part surface is used to receive a textile support (4). The top section of the upper part has a nose-shaped extension extending to the rear, which is supported against the flat upper part of a fastener body (3). The rear wall of the lower part has at least one vertically oriented opening for receiving a hook formed in the end side of the fastener body. The fastener body has at least one fastening means for receiving a fastener (5).
