Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1236551A1] Process for cutting bundles of pieces (1) of wood removably held together by a holding device (4) into lumps (2) of wood comprises at least one saw device (5) attached to the holding device and pressed onto the pieces of wood and rotated perpendicular to their longitudinal extension. An Independent claim is also included for a device for cutting bundles of pieces of wood into lumps of wood. Preferred Features: The bundles of wood are held by a holding device before or during the rotating movement. After cutting the holding device is released, moved along the pieces of wood parallel to their longitudinal extension by a distance corresponding to the length of the lumps of wood, and retightened.
