Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0126708A1] The present invention includes polymeric valves and valve devices. The invention also includes machines or instruments using those aspects of the invention. Devices of the present invention include implantable devices with a sufficiently long lifetime that are responsive to the patient's therapeutic requirements and deliver a certain amount of a drug in response to a biological stimulus. The present invention includes methods and processes using the devices of the present invention.
