Abstract (en)

[origin: FR2822137A1] The panel is made from a core of a corrugated material between two plain layers that are stuck to the core, and has one surface impressed to receive the bottoms of the cans. The impressions (11) have circular edges (12), forming round areas in which the corrugations are completely crushed in the centre and partially round the outside. Each end of the panel has a projecting strip (104) with slits (105) and rectangular U-shaped cuts (106) that allow them to be folded.
