Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1247922A2] The floor support has a support component and a top plate (6) adjustably connected to the support component via a connecting element for support of a false floor construction. Elongated cut-outs (11) constructed in the top plate extend radially from the middle with an angular spacing of 90 degrees, and between the cut-outs are fitting slots extending with an angular spacing of about 90 degrees, and between which are formed tongues (17). The inner ends of the fitting slots are widened at least on one side. An Independent claim is included for a false floor construction equipped with the said floor supports.
