Abstract (en)

The apparatus is separated into two sections (1A,1B) for storing compostable material and for accommodating pair of conic milling discs (10,11) for metering stored compostable material, respectively.

An apparatus for storing and metering compostable materials or mixtures thereof, for biomass composting systems, comprises two mutually separated apparatus sections, of which a first section comprises a compostable material accumulating construction, and the second section comprises a metering construction, of a constant flow-rate type, for metering the stored materials.
