Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1251207A2] Mobile home or office unit (10) in container form comprises a main box element (12) having a floor (36) and a ceiling, at least one additional box element (14) having a floor (32) which is inserted during transport into the main box element and pulled out through a side opening to produce a home or office unit having a larger floor surface, and devices for adjusting the floor level of the main and additional box elements. The main box element has a height-adjustable double floor (38) as a floor-leveling device. Preferred Features: Sealing devices are provided between the main box element and the additional box element. The floors of the box elements move together and apart on rollers.
