Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0165197A1] The invention concerns a modular device essentially comprising a mobile command post (4), ground bases (2) and remote-operated weapons (3). The ground bases are distributed over a zone to be protected (7) and are responsible for detecting, locating and watching intrusions in said zone. The remote-operated weapons are arranged within firing range of said zone and operate either automatically on the basis of data collected by the ground bases, or through human intervention, from the command post.
