Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0154921A2] A foldable trading card including two adjacent cards hingedly connected to one another with a clear overlamine layer.

A method of manufacturing the foldable trading card comprising the steps of: providing a two-sided sheet construction of multiple first and second cards in paired configuration; cutting the sheet construction to bisect the paired cards; providing registration indicia on the sheet construction; depositing a laminate over the sheet construction so that bisected pairs are joined; and, cutting the sheet construction with overlamine layer in register with the registration indicia to form an independent foldable trading cards having first and second cards of substantially identical size and shape.
