Abstract (en)
[origin: US2003147685A1] A little bottle (11) with a cap (10) which can be mounted via a screw-type cap has an integrated brush (12) for removing the mainly liquid contents of the little bottle. In order to be able to mainly remove the entire contents from the little bottle in a simple way with the integrated brush, it has been planned that, in combination, the brush (12) in the cap (10) is held in such a way that it can be moved in axial direction, and the interior space (15) of the little bottle (11) has a hollow (30) near the bottom of the little bottle (19), which is at least partially opposite to the free end of the removal element (12).
