Abstract (en)

Gripper (1), in particular for holding containers, of the type comprising a pair of mutually facing jaws (2), fastened to a support structure (3) and movable between a first operative configuration of holding the containers and a second operative configuration of releasing the containers. The gripper (1) originally comprises at least a rigid element (4) to connect said jaws (2) kinematically and allow its substantially simultaneous and controlled operation. Said rigid element (4) is substantially a connecting rod having each of its ends hinged to a corresponding jaw (2). <IMAGE>
