Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0200988A1] The invention relates to a sealing collar (10) which serves to seal connections in household appliances, in particular the connection between liquor container and front housing wall, or liquor container upper piece and cover frame in washing machines and which may be fixed by means of an essentially annular tensioning element (11). According to the invention, said tensioning element (11) may be moulded in the interior of the section (bead 9) of the sealing collar (10) to be fixed.
