Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0204723A1] The invention relates to a device for creating a gauze fabric comprising a plurality of juxtapositioned needles (1). Each needle has an associated eye for a warp thread and an element (13) containing a plurality of juxtapositioned associated eyes for guiding the warped thread and which is movable lengthwise and crosswise in relation to the stationary needles (1). According to the invention, the element (13), which is provided with associated eyes is guided in the guiding element (18) for longitudinal movements occurring in the longitudinal direction of the needles and for transversal movements occurring thereafter.
