Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1300103A2] The furniture is provided with at least one article storage or support device, especially a tabletop (19). Movement of the main part (11) and the set part (13) of the furniture to give a first useful configuration will result in the storage device being returned to a stowed away position, with the aid of a guide device (17, 21). Movement of the main and set parts to give a second useful configuration will result in the storage device adopting a use position, again the aid of the guide device. <??>The main part can be moved relative to the set part between at least two useful configurations, preferably by pivoting action.
