Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1302594A2] Tree grill comprises several individual cast iron elements (1, 1') connected to each other on the under side via flange-like cams (2) with connecting elements. The individual elements are secured in position and connected to each other in a force-locking manner by at least one bolt element (3) with a vertical hole (4). <??>Preferred Features: The individual elements have in the region of the cams a freely deformable vertical recess which widens in the upper region to form a bearing surface (5) for the head of the bolt element.
