Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0207550A1] The patterned scarf is made up of a first and a second layer of fabric (2, 4) which are interwoven at the edges (6, 8). The scarf has colours and/or patterns which are formed with weft threads (12) by spaced out insertions between warp threads (10) of the same colour. The warp threads (10, 10a, 10b, 10c) consist of a textured yarn consisting of chemical fibres, in order to improve the appearance of the fringes (14) at the transverse edges (8).
