Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1304054A1] The clasp consists of two articulated arms (10, 12) connected to the ends of the bracelet, the first having two lengthwise members (18, 20) and the second in the form of a plate (12a) between them, with a lock to hold them in the closed position. The lock is in the form of pushers (28) with studs (30) able to slide transversely relative to the ends of the lengthwise members. The studs are located between the lengthwise members and are equipped with fasteners (30b) engaging with projections (12d) on the plate.
