Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0218221A1] The invention concerns a component (2, 3) for a soft package (1) with a substantially tubular shape comprising a narrow neck (7, 28) at one of its ends and a flat closure at the other end, said package being designed to contain a consumable product (5), such as toothpaste, which is squeezed out by pressing with the fingers. More particularly, the invention concerns a package component comprising an anti-diffusion layer (8) designed to protect the consumable product from its environment.
